

When the 50 ME Commando was formed in Egypt August 1940, there were 63 Spaniards in the ranks. All had fought in the Republican Army during the Spanish Civil War and had been recruited by the French Army in refugee camps located in the South of France during 1939.

Subsequently they were sent to the Middle East as part of French Foreign Legion, or 11eme Bataillon de Marche, stationed in French mandated Syria and Lebanon.

After the German occupation of France, these Spaniards boarded three lorries and made their way to Palestine and then Egypt to join the British Army and specifically the 50 ME Commando.

Around half were taken PoW in Crete.

In late 1941 those who escaped were recruited to D Squadron of 1 SAS along with other ex-50 ME Commandos.

Around mid-1943, eight of these Spaniards are listed as having been incorporated in to 361 Company Pioneer Corps.

The Spanish members of 50th Middle East Commandos, and their fate on 31 May 1941 in Crete, were:
